

2024 International Conference

Date February 5-7, 2024

Location Room 132, College of Liberal Arts at Korea University (Zoom ID : 455 948 0594)

Organized by Institute of Philosophical Studies at Korea University

KOREA UNIVERSITY
Department of Philosophy

AI and Subjectivity

5. Feb. 2024

13:30 ~ 13:40		Opening Speech
Session I: General Perspectives
Moderator : Prof. Young Woo Kwon (Korea University, Korea)
13:40 ~ 14:20	Dr. Carl Sean O'Brien (Maynooth University, Ireland)		"Approaching AI via Ancient Greek Philosophy"
14:20 ~ 15:00	Prof. Matsuzawa Hiroki (Seijo Univ., Japan)		"Life, Consciousness, and Intellect: Three Types of Self in Humans as Models for AI"
15:00 ~ 15:40	PD. Dr. Roberto Vinco (Uni. Heidelberg, Germany)		"The Necessary Connection between Life and Thinking: A Hegelian Critique of Artificial Intelligence"
Moderator : Prof. Chan Lee (Korea University, Korea)
16:00 ~ 16:40	Dr. Roxana Baiasu (University of Oxford, England)		"Can AI be a subject like us?"
16:40 ~ 17:20	Prof. Young Woo Kwon (Korea University, Korea)		"AI as a Subject? On conditions for living together between human beings and AI"

6. Feb. 2024

Session II: Theoretical Perspectives
Moderator: Prof. Matsuzawa Hiroki (Seijo Univ., Japan)
10:00 ~ 10:40	Dr. Han Wang (Future Leadership Center, China)	"Can Human Thinking be Decoded via Computer Programs? A Hegelian Perspective on Artificial Intelligence"
10:40 ~ 11:20	Dr. Ermylos Plevrakis (Uni. Heidelberg, Germany)	"Mind and (artificial) Intelligence from a Hegelian Point of View"
11:20 ~ 12:00	Prof. Patrick Grüneberg (Kanasawa Univ. Japan)	"AI beyond Computation: Subjectivity as the Heterarchical Foundation of Intelligence"
Dr. Georg Oswald (Uni. Kiel, Germany)
14:00 ~ 14:40	Prof. Hyeong Joo Kim (Chung-Ang University, Korea)	"Unexplainable Explainable AI"
14:40 ~ 15:20	Prof. Sorin Baiasu (Keele Univ., England)	"AI and (Self)-Consciousness"
15:20 ~ 16:00	Emer. Prof. Anton F. Koch (Uni. Heidelberg, Germany)	"Artificial Intelligence and the Problem of Consciousness"
Session III: Practical Perspectives
Moderator: Dr. Carl Sean O'Brien (Maynooth University, Ireland)
16:20 ~ 17:00	Prof. Kumasaka Motohiro (Tokushima Univ., Japan)	"AIs and Their Limited Subjectivities: Subjectivities Shaped by Human's Recognition"
17:00 ~ 17:40	Prof. Pablo Pulgar (Modern & Political Philosophy at Diego Portales University, Chile)	"Marx and AIs: The networked Production of Subjectivity"

7. Feb. 2024

Moderator: Prof. Kumasaka Motohiro (Tokushima Univ., Japan)
10:00 ~ 10:40	Prof. Catrin Misselhorn (Uni. Göttingen, Germany)	"Simulated Subjectivity – is Empathy with Robots Morally Relevant?"
10:40 ~ 11:20	Prof. Chul Kang (University of Seoul, Korea)	"The Implications of the Trolley Problem for AI Ethics"
Moderator: Dr. Ermylos Plevrakis (Uni. Heidelberg, Germany)
11:40 ~ 12:20	Dr. Georg Oswald (Uni. Kiel, Germany)	"Embodied Subjectivity and Morality. On the Possibility of Founding Intrinsic Values of Non-Human Entities in Kant's, Schelling's, and Hegel's Philosophy of Nature"
12:20 ~ 13:00	Prof. Sang Wook Yi (Hanyang University, Korea)	"Interests and Agency: How should we include AI in our moral considerations"
13:00 ~ 13:10	Closing Address
18:00 ~ 20:00	Dinner & Concert

Host Institute of Philosophical Studies, Korea University

Co-host Korean Society of Ethics & The Hegel Society of Korea

Supported by NRF (National Research Foundation of Korea) & Park, Joon Ku (Chairman of Wooshin Chemtech Co.)

고려대학교 철학연구소

한국윤리학회
Korean Society of Ethics

한국헤겔학회 The Hegel Society of Korea

한국연구재단

WOOSHIN
CHEMTECH